Several days of cutting in hard rock so choked up the neck of the dredger that she had to lay off yesterday for a cleaning. In the meantime her smokstack was given a new coat of paint.

At Hilo: The Annie Johnson is discharging; the Santiago sails tomorrow with a full load of sugar; the schooner Nokomish will begin taking sugar after the Santiago clears out. Weather is fine.

The chief officer of the Miowera had a bottle, in which were quite a number of salmon eggs. He is particularly careful of them, and expects to have some fish to show on the return trip from the Colonies.

In the Kaula line, the clipper James Makee returned yesterday morning from Kapaa. She brought 2600 bags of Kealia. Fine weather all over the island and business is rushing. The Makee sailed again at 4 p. m. for the same port.

Owing to the war in Cuba and the trouble in the Philippine Islands, Hawaiian sugar is in greater demand in the East than usual. A number of vessels have been chartered and are now on their way, or will be soon, to Honolulu, to load sugar for New York or other eastern ports.

The majority of them go there in ballast, but not all. The people in the Hawaiian Islands want their goods, and especially their holiday goods, from what they call "the Coast," and they get them. At holiday times they want notions, dry goods, toys, confectionery; they even want dried blood, as the export column will show. Three vessels cleared on Saturday for the Hawaiian Islands and their combined cargoes, as manifested, aggregate in value $76,355.—S. F. Exchange.

Unfortunate Japanese.

Yoshimura, a Japanese laborer from Hilo, called at the police station yesterday afternoon with a very sad tale, he having lost over $200 while coming to Honolulu on the Kinau Tuesday. The facts in the case are these:

Yoshimura was one of a number of Japanese in the steerage of the Kinau. While crossing the channel between Molokai and Oahu, the Kinau met the Mauna Loa and the two vessels exchanged the usual salutes. The Japanese, Yoshimura included, ran on deck to see what the excitement was about. Upon going below again Yoshimura found that his bundle containing $200 had disappeared. There was no trace to be discovered.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. E. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject.
